ABOUT ME

I'm a committed learner, having recently completed the highly regarded Le Wagon bootcamp in London in my evening and weekends alongside my full time job. I'm looking forward to transferring the skills I have learned in my current and previous roles, and pairing them with those I've learned at Le Wagon in an engineering role.

I'm currently a Regional Business Manager for Subway's Business Development Office for Greater London, with 10+ years of management experience in the hospitality sector at many levels and companies, all including heading major system changes from scheduling, recruitment and training, to rolling out major regional initiatives such as third-party delivery most recently.
